Reasons For Allowance

1. The following is an Examiner's Statement of Reasons for Allowance:

Claims 1-41 are allowable over the prior art of record.

The examiner has found that the prior art of record does not teach or suggest or render obvious a method and a system to support reconfiguration of a host computer utilized/used to access a network, comprising: maintaining a mapping (configuration information) between a computer and a corresponding network service for accessing the network; modifying the mapping so that the given computer is assigned an another network service for accessing the network instead of the first network service; and generating a command to deny (terminate a communication link) the given computer from accessing the network which, in turn, results in the given computer initiating communications to enable the given computer to access the network via the another network service based on a modified mapping at set forth in the specification and recited in the independent claims 1, 20-21, and 40-41; and also does not teach or suggest or render obvious a method and a system for supporting access to a network via one of multiple network services, comprising: supporting communications associated with a given computer to retrieve configuration information that enables the given computer to access the network via a network service; receiving a command to deny the given computer access to the network; and after denying the given computer access to the network, supporting further communications associated with the given computer to retrieve reconfiguration information that enables the given computer to access the network via an another network service at set forth in the specification and recited in the independent claims 14 and 34.
